Lewis Carol said, "if you don't know where you are going, any road will get you there." So goes strategic planning and organizational performance. Unless the organization can identify clear objectives and design and plan for specific work to achieve those objectives, the chances of achieving meaningful success are minimal.

Human Resource professionals play an integral part in an organization's strategic planning processes, and this interactive six-hour workshop will have you diving right in!

Our facilitator will provide an overview of the strategic planning process and will lead you step-by-step through each phase, thereby illuminating the critical value and benefits the HR leader brings to the process!

ILSHRM is honored to have Heather Kinzie, Chief Operating Officer of The Strive Group in Anchorage, Alaska present this Strategic HR series! The series has been pre-approved for 6.0 hours of SHRM Professional Development Credit (PDC) and Human Resource Certification Credit (HRCI) business credit.
